

"Ow! Snappy, you woke me up!" Lindsay had wanted to sleep in, but her dog woke her up this morning.
 "Mom," Lindsay called. "Mom, Snappy woke me up!"
 # "Sweetie," her mom said, "he's your dog. You are the one who wanted him. He just wanted to go outside and play."

"Mom, why do I have to take care of him? I'm not the adult!"

"I'm not getting involved with this, honey. This is between you and him." With that, Lindsay's mother walked away.

"He's just a stupid dog," Lindsay muttered.

"Arr arr arr," Snappy whined. "Arr!"

"Fine, I'll take you outside." She put Snappy's harness on, and headed outside. Being responsible is so rotten, Lindsay thought. It was a nice summer day, and Snappy pulled at the leash.
 "No, Snappy," she said. Lindsay took him back inside.

Later that week, Lindsay went on a jog with Snappy. Her mom had made her go, for "bonding time with Snappy." She was beginning to be less aggravated, but she was still very annoyed with him.

One day the Sun came up. Sun was a very stoic and happy feeling. Sun represented light when it was dark or as some people would say a nice day when Sun shined. It was 9:00 in the morning and Moon rose. "It is not time for you to rise and take over the Sky!" declared Sun. "I do not get enough time in the sky! You always get all of the ~~attention~~ attention and the only time I am recognized is when I am full and the only reason people notice that is because I can make were wolves appear!" "Wind who do you think should have more time in the sky?" asked Sun. "Maybe moon so more people can sleep longer," said Wind. After Wind made his statement there was a big woosh. "Tally mark for me!" Moon has exclaimed. "Hey clouds who do you think should be in the sky longer?" asked Moon.

"I think that the Sun should be out for longer because then kids can play outside longer," said clouds. "Maybe we can share the time we get in the sky", said Sun. "Okay", said Moon. They lived happily ever after.
